Participating in psychological research is a unique opportunity for experiential learning. Until now, this opportunity was available only for students in Psychology 100. Starting this year, many 200-level courses will be offering extra credit for research participation to the students enrolled in them. We hope that you will take advantage of this option to enhance your first-hand knowledge of research in our field. If you are enrolled in a 200-level course that offers extra research credit, most of the mechanics of participation will be familiar to you from Psyc 100. Please check out your course syllabi, look out for an invitation to participate in prescreening and for an email about your SONA account. Further information is provided on the Participant Pool webpage: http://www.queensu.ca/psychology/undergraduate/participant-pool-information. Should you have objections to participating in research, you can fulfill an alternative assignment (a walk through a study or a paper project). How to go about requesting an alternative assignment is described in the Instructions for Students in PSYC 200 Level Courses. We can only gradually implement this option and it is currently only available to students in 200-level courses. If you have any questions, comments, or concerns related to the Participant Pool, please contact the Participant Pool Coordinator, Cheryl Hamilton, at participant.pool@queensu.ca or myself at fitneva@queensu.ca. Stanka Fitneva, Participant Pool Officer

2nd or 3rd Year Students

INTERESTED IN GAINING SOME RESEARCH EXPERIENCE? The Queen's Visual Cognition Lab (QVCL) is currently looking for Volunteer Research Assistants who are enthusiastic about Cognitive Psychology and want to learn more about Vision Research. This is a perfect position for a 2nd year student interested in learning more about this field, or a 3rd year student looking to gain some research experience. We have some great people working in our lab this year, and hopefully you're interested in contributing to our field of work. The time commitment is about 10hrs/week and hours are flexible. If you are interested, please email our lab <qvcl.general@gmail.com> by Monday, September 18th with your resume, an unofficial copy of your transcript, computer skills, and the reason why you would make an excellent volunteer. Place ‘Lab Assistant Position’ in the subject line. If you would like more information about our research, feel free to drop by our lab located at Humphrey Hall, Room 311.

The annual Career Fair is the premiere recruitment event at Queen's University. There are over 120 employer and educator recruiters to connect with from a variety of locations and sectors. Get a professional photo taken at our LinkedIn photo booth (sponsored by the City of Kingston). Stop by our Student Prep Area as you head in, to get help with how to approach/what to ask exhibitors. NEW this year: Tours at the fair. Not sure what to do at a career fair? Join a tour (running every 30 minutes) as you head in, to help you find your feet. Follow #careerfairqueens on Twitter for updates and info about this event. More info at: http://careers.queensu.ca/events-workshops/career-fair

CAREER SERVICES. Please check Career Services weekly for very important and useful information.
Dean’s Honour Lists for 2016-17  Academic Regulation 12 –Dean’s Honour Lists explains that the required GPA of 3.50 for the academic year of 2016-17 includes Summer Term 2017. The Faculty of Arts & Science runs the reports for grades at the end of August and it takes a couple weeks beyond that for the rulings to be confirmed and entered on individual transcripts. The rulings of “Dean’s Honour List” or “Dean’s Honour List with Distinction” (top 3% of all students within their program group – see above regulation) will start appearing on transcripts from mid- to late September, so check your transcript after that date.

ON-CAMPUS HIRING FOR NEW GRADS STARTS IN EARLY SEPTEMBER! As students prepare to return this fall, companies from across North America are also preparing to visit our campus, to recruit the talent that Queen’s has to offer. It Starts Earlier than You Might Think. We want to alert students that some of the opportunities to connect with employers begin right as students are returning to campus. Certain industries - such as Management Consulting, Financial Services, Accounting, and Telecommunications - tend to recruit very early in the fall, with some job postings closing in the first two weeks of September. Many Information Sessions are also early.

- Central Career Services and the Smith School of Business Career Centre will be hosting company information sessions beginning in Frosh Week (September 5, 6, and 7) and throughout the academic year.
- The Smith School of Business will once again be hosting Industry Nights September 11 through 20. Registration. Recruitment events will be posted in the MyCareer Events & Workshops Calendar for signup. Registration will open August 25, and will typically close 24 hours before the event. New sessions will be added on an ongoing basis as they are confirmed.

Other Ways to Connect With Employers:
- The MyCareer job board, which operates year-round, is also a great resource to find additional opportunities for after graduation jobs. Log in to MyCareer at https://careers.sso.queensu.ca/home.htm.
- Another great way to meet recruiters is through the annual Career Fair (Sept 26) or Fall Engineering & Technology Fair (Oct 17-18). Search #careerfairqueens on Twitter for all the latest information and list of exhibitors.
- Get Help  Career Services is available to support all Queen’s students with services including: 1-1 Resume Review appointments; Resume and Cover Letter workshops; Interview workshops; and more.

Have questions about On-Campus Recruiting or other Career Topics? Come to Drop-in Career Advising Hours (no appointment required): August: Tues-Thurs, 1:30-3:30pm  September through May: Mon-Thurs, 1:30-3:30pm. If you have any questions about campus recruitment or related events, please contact mycareer@queensu.ca

Have you started looking for a way to get involved with the Psychology Department this year? Look no further than the Psychology Peer Mentoring Program. The Psychology Peer Mentoring Program is looking for upper-year mentors for the 2017-2018 school year! As a mentor in this program you will be matched with a first year student who is interested in Psychology, providing guidance and advice as they navigate their first year at Queen’s towards a future in Psychology. This program runs for the duration of the year and is comprised of biweekly 1-on-1 meetings with your mentee as well as group events. Access the application at https://www.facebook.com/QueensuPsycDSC/ and send your completed application to Sam and Sara at psyc.mentorship@gmail.com by September 15th at 5:00pm to apply!

Homecoming 2017 opportunities! In just a few short weeks, alumni from around the world will return to campus for Homecoming 2017 from October 13th through 15th. Alumni Relations is looking for enthusiastic Queen’s students help welcome alumni home, and to make Homecoming a fun, safe and successful event! Don’t miss this opportunity to be a part of a Queen’s tradition, to network with incredible alumni and show your Tricolour spirit! Visit queensu.ca/alumni/homecoming to learn more or register by Sept 29th, or contact the Volunteer Coordinator with questions.

Dr. Tom Hollenstein, Associate Professor, Dept. of Psychology, Tom.Hollenstein@queensu.ca

Professor Susan Brodt, is looking for student volunteers to be part of her lab, which researches psychological aspects of work. This year they are studying interpersonal conflict and negotiation (with an emphasis on gender, mindfulness and self-regulation). As always, they use empirical methods in our lab, meaning experiments. Volunteers will be an integral part of the research group and will work on various aspects of research, including running experiments. The projects will be fun and valuable as a learning experience. Because you will be working with a particular research project that lasts all year, Dr. Brodt requires students to commit to working both semesters. If you are interested, email Professor Susan Brodt
Email: sbrodt@business.queensu.ca to set up an interview. Please include a resume, a copy of the courses you have taken and associated marks (does not need to be an official copy), and a writing sample (i.e., any paper from any course at Queen’s). Interviews (and decisions) will take place the week of September 22.

Spots are available in DEVS 220 Introduction to Aboriginal Studies in the Fall 2017 term. The course will be held on Tuesdays from 11:30 AM - 2:30 PM. Normally the course is reserved for DEVS students however, this year we have opened it up for students in other disciplines to enroll. Please see the course description: An introduction to the Aboriginal world view and culture organized on an historical basis, from Creation to 1969, emphasizing Aboriginal culture and experience in Canada. Aboriginal perspectives will be introduced through traditional teaching methods and contributions from elders and other community members. For students with second year standing or above. Prerequisite: none.
Volunteering Opportunity with Frontier College: Helen Tufts Child Outreach Program
If you love working with children and are looking to get involved in the community and volunteer this year, The Frontier College Helen Tufts Child Outreach Program is for you! We are currently accepting applications for volunteers interested in joining the program. The Frontier College Helen Tufts Child Outreach Program pairs a Queen’s student with a child from the local Kingston community. These children often come from broken homes or underprivileged backgrounds, thus our program truly benefits and impacts the lives of these children. We aim to inspire a love of literacy through our literacy-based program activities and to act as supportive mentors and friends! The program runs on either Monday Nights from 6 to 8pm or Thursday Nights from 6 to 8pm. If you are interested in becoming a part of our volunteer team please print and fill out the following application and drop it off at Stauffer Library in Group Study Room 212 on Thursday September 21st.

Interviews will be held the following week on Monday September 25th and Thursday September 28th at Sydenham Street United Church. It is important to note that all volunteers must have completed a new police check (completed within the last 6 months) that includes a vulnerable sector check before you can start volunteering with our program this year.

If you have any questions regarding dates/times or the program itself please contact me: Marina Paron
