Part-time Lab Coordinator Position Open at the Queen's Visual Cognition Lab. The QVCL is currently looking for a Lab Coordinator (starting date is negotiable). This is a paid position and starts at $15/hr. The time commitment is about 20hrs/week and hours are flexible. This is an ideal position if you are graduating this year, would like to take some time off before continuing your studies or are considering graduate school but are not yet sure. It is an excellent way to gain extensive research experience. We are looking for someone who wants to learn more about Cognitive Psychology and Vision Research and can commit to the position for at least one year. Skills in programming preferred but not required. Preference will also be given to applicants that have some basic knowledge of Adobe Photoshop or 3D Studio Max. In addition to research, this position involves some administrative duties. We are looking for an organized and detailed-oriented person, who enjoys working with others.

If you are interested, please email Dr. Castelhano <monica.castelhano@queensu.ca>, with your resume, a copy of your transcript, your overall grade average, computer skills, and the reason why you would make an excellent candidate for this position. Place ‘Lab Coordinator Position’ in the subject line. If you would like more information about our research, feel free to browse our website at http://qvcl.queensu.ca/

ANNOUNCING: THE 2018 SUMMER INSTITUTE IN POLITICAL PSYCHOLOGY

at Stanford University from August 5 – August 25, 2018. Applications are being accepted now for the 23th Annual Summer Institute in Political Psychology, to be held at Stanford University August 5-25, 2018. The Summer Institute offers 3 weeks of intensive training in political psychology. Political psychology is an exciting and thriving field that explores the origins of political behavior and the causes of political events, with a special focus on the psychological mechanisms at work.

Research findings in political psychology advance basic theories of politics and are an important basis for political decision-making in practice.

SIPP was founded in 1991 at Ohio State University, and Stanford has hosted SIPP since 2005, with support from Stanford University and from the National Science Foundation. Hundreds of participants have attended SIPP during these years.

The 2018 SIPP curriculum is designed to (1) provide broad exposure to theories, empirical findings, and research traditions; (2) illustrate successful cross-disciplinary research and integration; (3) enhance methodological pluralism; and (4) strengthen networks among scholars from around the world. SIPP activities will include lectures by world class faculty, discussion groups, research/interest group meetings, group projects, and an array of social activities. Some of the topics covered in past SIPP programs include public attitudes and attitude change, race relations, conflict and dispute resolution, voting and elections, international conflict, decision-making, moral disengagement and violence, social networks, activism and social protest, political socialization, justice, and many more. In 2018, SIPP will accept up to 60 participants, including graduate students, faculty, professionals, and advanced undergraduates. Please visit our website for more information and to find the application to attend: web.stanford.edu/group/sipp/cgi-bin/sipp

Applications are accepted on a rolling basis until all slots are filled, so applying soon maximizes chances of acceptance. Any questions should be directed to: 2018SIPP@gmail.com
"Flip the Script" Sexual Assault Resistance Education Program, is a twelve hour program made up of four three-hour sessions delivered during the evening OR two full days over a weekend providing information, skills, and practice in assessing risk from acquaintances; overcoming emotional barriers in acknowledging danger; and engaging in effective verbal and physical self-defence. As well, participants explore their own sexual values, desires, boundaries, and rights. This is an evidence–based program developed by Dr. Charlene Senn from the University of Windsor.

This program is open to women registered at Queen's University. There is no fee to participate. Contact our team at eaaaproject@queensu.ca for more information. Visit us on Facebook at https://www.facebook.com/FliptheScriptQueens/

Program runs all 4 Monday evenings in March (5, 12, 19, 26) from 6:30–9:30 p.m. Women must attend all 12 hours of training in order to receive a certificate.

Can’t travel in the summer? We travel all year long!
Camp Outlook is currently looking to hire a new set of staff for the 2018 summer season. We (Ben and Sophie) the Summer Directors, are asking if you would be able to send out this information to your students or to anyone you think may be interested in this opportunity. Camp Outlook is a completely volunteer-run, charitable organization. We provide young people (ages 13 to 17) experiencing challenges including social, behavioural, and economic, with an opportunity to strengthen their self-worth and capacity to succeed through wilderness camping experiences. We take these youth on cost-free canoe trips (ranging from 5-14 days) in Algonquin Provincial Park.

We are now hiring volunteer trip leaders for the Summer of 2018! Volunteering with Outlook is a meaningful way to make a difference in the lives of youth while becoming a part of an open minded and accepting community, as well as getting the chance to enjoy the outdoors. No previous tripping experience is necessary.

The 2018 summer season runs from the last week of May to the end of August. We provide staff with room, board and complete training. This includes certifications such as Mental Health First Aid, Bronze Cross and Advanced Wilderness First Aid. We value building a diverse team, and people from all backgrounds are encouraged to apply. For more information visit http://www.campoutlook.ca/volunteer.htm or apply now. Please don’t hesitate to email summer@campoutlook.ca with any questions or concerns. Deadline to apply: Midnight, March 3, 2018.

Outlook is as rewarding as it is challenging. You will never forget your summer with Outlook, the campers, the staff, or the park.

What is the Communication Disorders Professional Network?
The Communication Disorders Professional Network provides a forum for students, researchers, and practicing professionals who are interested in communication disorders to learn with and from each other, to build their professional networks, and explore opportunities in our community. Participants will have the opportunity to engage in meaningful dialogue with each other, discussing evidence-based practice and how theory and research translates to clinical work. Meetings are one hour long and will occur four times this semester.

The idea for a communication disorders professional network originated from Christiane Haberl, who is a speech-language pathologist, currently working as a coordinator and professor for the Communicative Disorders Assistant Program at St. Lawrence College in Kingston. Christiane has been a practicing speech-language pathologist for 30 years. In addition to her background in speech-language pathology, she studied Applied Behaviour Analysis as part of her master’s in applied disability studies.

If you plan to attend a particular session, please RSVP to haberlslp@gmail.com before the session. This network is open to students in any program, so feel tell your friends!

1. Introduction to Communication Disorders – Christiane Haberl (SLP, Professor & Coordinator of the Communicative Disorders Assistant Program at St. Lawrence College)

When/Where: Monday Feb. 12th, 8-9pm, John Deutsch University Centre: McLaughlin Room
What is being discussed? This session will serve as an introduction to our group and to provide an overview of the various communication disorders typically seen in the field of speech-language pathology. We will also explore the various clinical agencies providing intervention and support for people with communication disorders, with a specific focus of service providers in the Kingston community, so we may brainstorm options for getting involved and volunteering. We will discuss ideas for future meetings as well.

2. Tentative Topic: Strokes & Aphasia, Apraxia, Augmentive Alternative Communication

When/Where: Thursday March 8th, 6-7pm, Bracken Library: Room 124

3. Autism Spectrum Disorder and Communication – Dr. Beth Kelley (Professor at Queen’s University, Department of Psychology)

When/Where: Monday March 19th, 7-8pm, John Deutsch University Centre: John Orr Room

4. Topic to be determined

When/Where: Monday April 2nd, 8-9pm, John Deutsch University Centre: Sutherland Room
The second talk in the Distinguished Lecture Series for 2017/18 is scheduled for Friday, March 2nd, 2:30-4pm, in DUPUIS HALL. A reception will follow, 4-5pm, in the AGSIP Lounge (Humphrey Hall).

Dr. Marcia Spetch will be visiting from the University of Alberta, giving a talk entitled, "Navigating with mixed messages: How creatures great and small deal with spatial conflict"

ABSTRACT: Accurate and efficient navigation can be critical to survival. Not surprisingly, many animals make use of multiple, often redundant, sources of spatial information for navigation to important places such as home or sources of food. Using multiple cues can provide more accurate information than a single cue and can safeguard against the possibility of one information source becoming unavailable. Relying on multiple cues can, however, lead to situations of conflict in which different cues provide discrepant information. There are several possible ways to respond to such conflict, including following only one source (winner take all), using different cues for different components of navigation, or averaging the information from the discrepant sources to strike a compromise. My research over several decades has explored how organisms deal with spatial conflict, and the role of experience in their behavior. I will present results from laboratory and field studies on navigation in animals ranging from desert ants to humans.

.......the exclusively undergraduate research conference in Psychology, hosted by Kwantlen Polytechnic University. Connecting Minds (CM) is the furthest reaching undergraduate conference of its kind, drawing student researchers from across Canada, the United States and even Europe. Since its inauguration in 2008, CM has hosted more than 300 high caliber research presentations representing over 30 institutions.

With events aimed towards the interests of undergraduate students, CM presents graduate panels, grant application panels, and social opportunities. CM has also featured several world-renowned keynote speakers such as Drs. Elizabeth Loftus and Albert Bandura, both recognized among the top 100 most eminent psychologists of the 20th century.

Dr. Adele Diamond, PhD, FRSC is the Canada Research Chair Professor of Developmental Cognitive Neuroscience at University of British Columbia (UBC), Vancouver, BC, Canada. Her discoveries have impacted education worldwide and improved treatment throughout the world for two medical disorders (PKU and ADHD). She’s been named one of the “2000 Outstanding Women of the 20th Century” and been recognized as one the 15 most influential neuroscientists in the world today. Her specialty is ‘executive functions’ (EFs), which depend on the brain’s prefrontal cortex. EFs enable us to resist temptations or automatic impulsive reactions, stay focused, mentally play with ideas, reason, problem-solve, flexibly adjust to changed demands or priorities, and see things from new and different perspectives. Dr. Diamond’s keynote address for Connecting Minds 2018 is entitled, “Insights from Psychology and Neuroscience to help you Succeed in University and on the Job Market”.
