Summer 2018
This year there are 5 undergraduate programs running at the BISC www.queensu.ca/bisc:
May 4 – Jun 16
   · Summer School (9.0 units)
   · Interdisciplinary Studies in Global Health and Disability (9.0 units)
   · Global Project Management (9.0 units)
   · British Archaeology (6.0 units)
Aug 12 - 27
   · Medieval Theatre Studies (6.0 units)

The deadline for all programs is March 15th 2018. Late applications up until April 1 will be accepted space permitting.

We are delighted to announce the launch this Fall of i²TRM – the International Innovation Term – a joint initiative between the Dunin-Deshpande Innovation Centre and the Bader International Study Centre (BISC).

i²TRM combines a semester abroad in the UK with the chance for students to form their own business venture, all while earning 15 units towards an undergraduate degree plan.

This program combines the innovative programming and opportunities presented by the Innovation Centre with the international location of the BISC.

“It has never been more important for entrepreneurs to look beyond our borders for opportunities. Many Canadian undergraduate students have not had the benefit of an international experience necessary to be successful in entrepreneurship abroad. The i²TRM is intended to give them that experience and gain a historical and international context for innovation and entrepreneurship in London, the cradle of the industrial economy. By leveraging the supports available from our alumni in Europe students and their ventures can go beyond borders.”

Greg Bavington
Executive Director, Dunin-Deshpande Queen's Innovation Centre

An information session is being held at 5:30pm on March 6 at SparQ Studios, Carruthers Hall - First Floor.

What is the Communication Disorders Professional Network?
The Communication Disorders Professional Network provides a forum for students, researchers, and practicing professionals who are interested in communication disorders to learn with and from each other, to build their professional networks, and explore opportunities in our community. Participants will have the opportunity to engage in meaningful dialogue with each other, discussing evidence-based practice and how theory and research translates to clinical work. Meetings are one hour long and will occur four times this semester.

The idea for a communication disorders professional network originated from Christiane Haberl, who is a speech-language pathologist, currently working as a coordinator and professor for the Communicative Disorders Assistant Program at St. Lawrence College in Kingston. Christiane has been a practicing speech-language pathologist for 30 years. In addition to her background in speech-language pathology, she studied Applied Behaviour Analysis as part of her master’s in applied disability studies.

If you plan to attend a particular session, please RSVP to haberlslp@gmail.com before the session. This network is open to students in any program, so feel tell your friends!

We are excited to inform you that registration for this year's NeuroXchange Conference has officially opened! Please note that the date of the conference is Friday, April 27th.

NeuroXChange is a unique neuroscience and mental health conference held at McMaster University open to undergraduate students across Ontario. This conference is designed to bring together future neuroscientists to network, learn, and present their research to fellow peers. Students are encouraged to present their research OR to register as attendees.

If you are an undergraduate student interested in neuroscience, mental health or research in general, we highly encourage you to attend. There will be keynote addresses from Dr. Douglas Crawford and Dr. Stephanie R. Penney, as well as a panels consisting of neuroscience graduate students and mental health professionals. If you are currently doing a project in the field of neuroscience, this is a great opportunity to present your research. Students presenting their research will have the opportunity to win cash prizes as well as a chance to be published in the McMaster Undergraduate Health Sciences Journal, the Meducator.

To register/apply to be a presenter, please use the following links, which are also found on our website (found below). The deadline is Friday, March 30th, 11:59pm for both attendees and presenters.

Oral Presenters:

The registration for The Inaugural Jacalyn Duffin Health & Humanities Conference, organized by Queen's School of Medicine is now open! The conference aims to create a space where students and educators of all disciplines can come together to discuss the intersections of health, medicine, arts and the humanities. Our conference is held in honor of Dr Jacalyn Duffin, the recently retired hematologist and medical historian who championed the medical humanities during her tenure at Queen's. In this spirit, we present the theme of our conference: What Makes Us Human? People from every discipline are encouraged to attend. Below are links for more information:

The 2018 Health and Human Rights Conference at Queen’s (HHRC) is an annual event held in the fall that seeks to engage students and community members on topics relevant to health and human rights in both local and international contexts. We are very excited to be entering our 18th year and are currently looking for students to join our executive planning committee. I was wondering if it would be possible for you to disseminate the attached information and application documents to the undergraduate and graduate students in your Faculty – we truly value the ability to bring students together from many different disciplines and we hope to continue the tradition of hosting as interdisciplinary of an event as possible.
