

My Visit to Queen's

When you and your parents are ready, you will go into another room to play some games and do some work.

ASD Studies @ Queen's University

Humphrey Hall, Room 107

(613) 533-2894

asd.studies@queensu.ca

<http://psyc.queensu.ca/asdstudies>

The researcher will talk to your parents for a bit. You can play with some toys while they are talking.

Researcher

university

You and your parents are coming to Queen's soon. Queen's is a university which is a school for big kids. You will meet some nice people who learn about how kids grow up.

Hello

parking lot

If you need to go to the bathroom while you are here just ask. To get to the bathroom you go out of the door and turn left and go down this hallway and through the door. The bathrooms are on the right side.

When you come to Queen's a nice person will meet you and your parents and show them where to park their car.

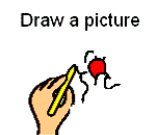

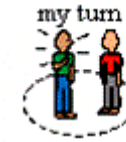

The nice person will show you where our center is. You and your parents will walk down these stairs and go in these doors. Our center is through the doors on the left hand side.

Here is a picture of our door. Our center has lots of fun toys.

In the room there is a special red chair for you to sit in and a special red chair for your Mom or Dad to sit in. The researcher will ask you to sit in your chair and will ask you to do some work.

You and the researcher will take turns playing with some toys. You might also have to answer some questions, draw a picture or do a puzzle.

You can have a snack when you are here. If you want you can take a break. When you are all done, you will get a toy to take home with you. Thanks for coming in! See you soon!

